

Now cease my wand'ring eyes

#13 from The Second Book of Songs or Atres

John Dowland

Cantus

Now cease my wan-d'ring eyes, Strange beau-ty to ad - mire, In
 One man hath but one soul, which art can-not di - vide, If Na - ture two eyes hath given, All beau-ty to im - part, As

Altus

Now cease my wan - d'ring eyes, Strange beau-ty to ad - mire, In
 One man hath but one soul, which art can-not di - vide, If
 Na - ture two eyes hath given, All beau-ty to im - part, As

Tenor

Now cease my wan-d'ring eyes, Strange beau-ty to ad - mire, In
 One man hath but one soul, which art can - not di - vide, If
 Na - ture two eyes hath given, All beau-ty to im - part, As

Bassus

Now cease my wan-d'ring eyes, Strange beau-ty to ad - mire, In
 One man hath but one soul, which art can-not di - vide, If
 Na - ture two eyes hath given, All beau-ty to im - part, As
